Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a workshop on Gender Equity in Agricultural Extension Services would be to explore and address the gender disparities in agricultural extension services, aiming to promote gender equity in the delivery of agricultural knowledge and support. The workshop would aim to:

Raise Awareness of Gender Inequality in Agriculture: Educate participants about the existing gender gaps in agricultural extension services, such as women's limited access to information, resources, training, and leadership opportunities. The workshop would highlight how these disparities hinder women's productivity and empowerment in agricultural contexts.

Promote Equal Access to Agricultural Knowledge: Explore ways to ensure that both women and men have equal access to agricultural extension services, resources, and support. The workshop would discuss strategies for designing inclusive extension programs that meet the specific needs of women farmers, such as tailoring content, delivery methods, and communication strategies.

Highlight the Role of Women in Agriculture: Discuss the significant contributions that women make to agriculture and rural development, often as primary food producers, caretakers of natural resources, and managers of household economies. The seminar would emphasize how gender-responsive extension services can help amplify these contributions and enhance women's roles in agriculture

Report

- Name of the Activity : Guest Lecture on Ethical Implications of Pesticide Use
- Organized by : School of Agriculture & Environmental Sciences
- Date of the Activity : 30th October 2023
- Place of the Activity : Shobhit University, Gangoh
- No. of Students Participated : 15
- Beneficiaries : Students
- Activity Coordinator: Dr. Vikas Kumar

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Guest Lecture on the Ethical Implications of Pesticide Use would be to explore the ethical considerations surrounding the widespread use of pesticides in agriculture. The lecture would aim to:

Introduce the Science and Use of Pesticides: Provide an understanding of how pesticides are developed, their intended purpose in controlling pests and diseases, and the different types of pesticides commonly used in agricultural practices. The lecture would explain how pesticides contribute to increased agricultural productivity but also the potential risks associated with their use.

Discuss the Environmental Impacts: Explore the environmental consequences of pesticide use, such as contamination of soil, water, and air, and the impact on non-target species, including beneficial insects (e.g., pollinators), birds, aquatic life, and biodiversity. The lecture would raise awareness of the long-term ecological damage that excessive pesticide use can cause.

Examine Human Health Concerns: Address the ethical concerns regarding the potential health risks associated with pesticide exposure, both for agricultural workers and consumers. The lecture would discuss the health implications of pesticide residues in food, as well as the risks to farmworkers who are often directly exposed to toxic chemicals, as well as surrounding communities.

The lecture would aim to stimulate critical thinking and encourage informed decision-making regarding the use of pesticides in agriculture. By examining the ethical dimensions of pesticide use, the lecture would help participants understand the complex trade-offs involved and inspire action toward more sustainable, health-conscious, and environmentally responsible agricultural practices.

The lecture was conducted successfully. A total number of 15 students attended the lecture.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Seminar on Human Values in Food Security Initiatives would be to explore how ethical principles and human values can inform and enhance food security efforts. The seminar would aim to:

Examine the Intersection of Human Values and Food Security: Discuss how core human values such as equity, justice, dignity, and solidarity play a critical role in shaping food security initiatives. The seminar would emphasize the need to ensure that food security policies and programs are rooted in principles that respect human rights and the well-being of all people, particularly marginalized and vulnerable groups.

Promote Social Justice in Food Systems: Explore the importance of ensuring that food security efforts are inclusive and accessible to all, especially those in poverty, rural communities, women, children, and marginalized populations. The seminar would highlight how food security programs can address social inequalities and support fair access to nutritious food.

Integrate Ethical Considerations into Policy and Practice: Discuss how ethical decision-making should be incorporated into food security policies, focusing on how governments, organizations, and communities can align their efforts with human-centered values. The seminar would look at the ethical implications of food distribution, access, and sustainability, and how policies can better support vulnerable populations.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Workshop on Sustainable Soil Management Practices would be to educate and empower participants with knowledge and practical skills to implement soil management practices that promote soil health, environmental sustainability, and agricultural productivity. The workshop would aim to:

Introduce the Importance of Soil Health: Educate participants about the critical role of soil in agricultural productivity, ecosystem functioning, and climate resilience. The workshop would emphasize how healthy soils are the foundation of sustainable food production, water filtration, carbon sequestration, and biodiversity conservation.

Promote Sustainable Soil Management Techniques: Provide practical knowledge on sustainable soil management practices, such as conservation tillage, cover cropping, crop rotation, organic matter management, agroforestry, and mulching. These practices help improve soil structure, enhance water retention, prevent erosion, and reduce the reliance on synthetic fertilizers and pesticides.

Highlight the Impact of Soil Degradation: Raise awareness about the consequences of soil degradation, such as soil erosion, loss of fertility, and desertification, which threaten food security and environmental health. The workshop would discuss the causes of soil degradation, including unsustainable farming practices, deforestation, and climate change, and explore ways to prevent or reverse these effects.

- Beneficiaries The beneficiaries of such a seminar could be quite diverse, encompassing both individuals and various groups involved in the care, support, and understanding of gender transition
- Activity Coordinator Dr. Sruthi Sajeev

Purpose of the Activity:

The purpose of the activity for the Seminar on Ayurvedic Approaches to Gender Transition Care would be multi-faceted, aiming to bridge the gap between traditional Ayurvedic practices and modern gender-affirming healthcare. The seminar seeks to achieve several objectives:

To introduce healthcare professionals, including Ayurvedic practitioners, medical doctors, and therapists, to the potential of integrating Ayurvedic principles with gender-affirming healthcare. This includes understanding how Ayurveda can complement medical treatments such as hormone replacement therapy (HRT), surgeries, and mental health support.

To educate participants on how Ayurvedic approaches can address specific health issues faced by individuals during gender transition, such as hormonal imbalances, skin changes, emotional well-being, and stress management.

Report

Name of the Activity: Seminar on Environmental Regulations Affecting Pharmacy Operations

Organized by: School of Pharmacy, Shobhit University, Gangoh

Date of the Activity: 24 Feb, 2024

Place of the Activity: University Seminar Hall

No. of Students Participated: 16

Beneficiaries: Students, Faculty Members, Pharmacy Professionals, Environmental Health Experts

Activity Coordinator: Ms. Kanika Sharma

Purpose of the Activity:

The Seminar on Environmental Regulations Affecting Pharmacy Operations was organized to raise awareness about the importance of environmental regulations in the pharmaceutical industry. The primary goal of the seminar was to explore how various environmental policies and regulations impact the operations of pharmacies, pharmaceutical manufacturers, and healthcare providers. The session aimed to provide students, faculty members, and industry professionals with an understanding of how environmental regulations ensure sustainability, safety, and compliance in pharmacy operations while also addressing environmental concerns such as waste management, resource conservation, and pollution control.

Description:

The Seminar on Environmental Regulations Affecting Pharmacy Operations was held at the University Seminar Hall and organized by the School of Pharmacy at Shobhit University, Gangoh. The seminar explored key environmental regulations that impact pharmacy operations, such as waste management laws, water and air pollution controls, and regulations surrounding the disposal of expired or unused pharmaceutical products. They explained how the pharmaceutical industry must comply with local, national, and international regulations, such as the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) guidelines, to minimize the environmental impact of drug manufacturing, distribution, and disposal.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Seminar on The Impact of Environmental Changes on Education Systems is to explore how global environmental changes, such as climate change, natural disasters, resource depletion, and environmental degradation, are affecting education systems around the world. This seminar aims to raise awareness among educators, administrators, policymakers, and researchers about the challenges and opportunities presented by environmental changes, and how educational institutions can adapt to and address these issues. It will also focus on the role of education in fostering environmental literacy and preparing students to face the challenges of a changing world. The key objectives of the seminar can include:

Understanding the Link Between Environmental Changes and Education: The seminar will provide an overview of how environmental changes, such as climate change, extreme weather events, and environmental degradation, are impacting educational systems.

Identifying Key Challenges for Education Systems: The seminar will highlight specific challenges faced by educational institutions due to environmental changes. This includes disruptions caused by natural disasters, shifting migration patterns due to environmental crises, changes in school attendance rates, and the impact of poor environmental conditions on students' health and well-being.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Workshop on Promoting Gender-Inclusive Pedagogies is to equip educators with the knowledge, skills, and strategies needed to create inclusive, equitable, and supportive learning environments that respect and value students of all genders. This workshop aims to raise awareness of gender biases in educational settings and provides practical tools for adopting pedagogical approaches that acknowledge, celebrate, and support gender diversity. The goal is to foster classrooms where every student, regardless of gender identity or expression, feels seen, respected, and empowered to succeed. The key objectives of the workshop can include:

Understanding Gender Inclusivity in Education: The workshop will provide a foundational understanding of what gender-inclusive education is and why it is essential. It will explore the concepts of gender identity, gender expression, and the difference between sex and gender, highlighting the importance of creating an environment where all gender identities are validated.

Identifying and Addressing Gender Bias in Teaching: Participants will learn to recognize how gender bias may manifest in traditional educational practices, such as curriculum content, classroom interactions, and assessment methods. The workshop will provide strategies for eliminating gender biases and stereotypes in these areas to ensure all students have equal opportunities for success.

- No. of Students Participated : 15
- Beneficiaries : Students
- Activity Coordinator: Dr. Prashant Kumar

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Guest Lecture on Human Values in Digital Education is to explore how human values, ethics, and principles can be integrated into the growing realm of digital education. This lecture aims to raise awareness among educators, students, and policymakers about the importance of embedding human-centric values—such as integrity, empathy, respect, fairness, and inclusivity—into digital teaching and learning environments. It seeks to provide practical insights into how technology can be used responsibly and ethically in education, ensuring that it enhances the learning experience while promoting moral and social responsibility. The key objectives of the guest lecture can include:

Understanding the Role of Human Values in Digital Education: The lecture will highlight the significance of integrating human values into digital education platforms. It will address how values like integrity, honesty, and empathy are essential for creating positive and meaningful learning experiences in the digital age.

Navigating Ethical Challenges in Digital Learning: The lecture will examine the ethical dilemmas that arise in digital education, such as data privacy concerns, the digital divide, and issues of online harassment or bullying. It will provide strategies for educators and institutions to tackle these challenges in a way that upholds human dignity and fairness.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Seminar on Ethics in Educational Research is to provide educators, researchers, and policymakers with a comprehensive understanding of the ethical principles and guidelines that should govern research practices in the field of education. The seminar will focus on ensuring that educational research is conducted with integrity, respect for participants, and consideration for the broader societal implications.

Understanding Ethical Principles in Educational Research: The seminar will provide an overview of core ethical principles in research, such as respect for participants, beneficence, justice, and integrity. These principles form the foundation for conducting research that is both morally and socially responsible.

Ensuring Informed Consent and Confidentiality: The seminar will focus on the importance of obtaining informed consent from research participants, ensuring they are fully aware of the study's purpose, methods, risks, and benefits. It will also address the need for confidentiality and the protection of sensitive data throughout the research process.

Navigating Issues of Vulnerable Populations: The seminar will discuss the ethical considerations involved in conducting research with vulnerable populations, such as children, individuals with disabilities, or marginalized communities. It will provide strategies for ensuring their protection and fair treatment while participating in educational research.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Seminar on Gender-Based Violence: Legal Remedies and Challenges is to explore the legal frameworks, remedies, and challenges in addressing gender-based violence (GBV). The activity aims to Raise awareness about the prevalence and impact of gender-based violence on individuals and communities, emphasizing its social, psychological, and legal consequences for survivors.

Examine the legal remedies available for survivors of gender-based violence, including laws related to protection orders, criminal prosecution, civil litigation, and support services such as shelters, legal aid, and counseling.

Identify the challenges in enforcing laws and legal remedies for gender-based violence, such as underreporting, victim-blaming, inadequate legal infrastructure, and societal attitudes that may hinder justice for survivors. Analyze the intersectionality of GBV, exploring how factors such as race, class, ethnicity, disability, and sexual orientation impact a survivor's access to justice and protection under the law.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a workshop on Gender Equity in Agricultural Extension Services would be to explore and address the gender disparities in agricultural extension services, aiming to promote gender equity in the delivery of agricultural knowledge and support. The workshop would aim to:

Raise Awareness of Gender Inequality in Agriculture: Educate participants about the existing gender gaps in agricultural extension services, such as women's limited access to information, resources, training, and leadership opportunities. The workshop would highlight how these disparities hinder women's productivity and empowerment in agricultural contexts.

Promote Equal Access to Agricultural Knowledge: Explore ways to ensure that both women and men have equal access to agricultural extension services, resources, and support. The workshop would discuss strategies for designing inclusive extension programs that meet the specific needs of women farmers, such as tailoring content, delivery methods, and communication strategies.

Highlight the Role of Women in Agriculture: Discuss the significant contributions that women make to agriculture and rural development, often as primary food producers, caretakers of natural resources, and managers of household economies. The seminar would emphasize how gender-responsive extension services can help amplify these contributions and enhance women's roles in agriculture

Report

- Name of the Activity : Guest Lecture on Ethical Implications of Pesticide Use
- Organized by : School of Agriculture & Environmental Sciences
- Date of the Activity : 30th October 2023
- Place of the Activity : Shobhit University, Gangoh
- No. of Students Participated : 15
- Beneficiaries : Students
- Activity Coordinator: Dr. Vikas Kumar

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Guest Lecture on the Ethical Implications of Pesticide Use would be to explore the ethical considerations surrounding the widespread use of pesticides in agriculture. The lecture would aim to:

Introduce the Science and Use of Pesticides: Provide an understanding of how pesticides are developed, their intended purpose in controlling pests and diseases, and the different types of pesticides commonly used in agricultural practices. The lecture would explain how pesticides contribute to increased agricultural productivity but also the potential risks associated with their use.

Discuss the Environmental Impacts: Explore the environmental consequences of pesticide use, such as contamination of soil, water, and air, and the impact on non-target species, including beneficial insects (e.g., pollinators), birds, aquatic life, and biodiversity. The lecture would raise awareness of the long-term ecological damage that excessive pesticide use can cause.

Examine Human Health Concerns: Address the ethical concerns regarding the potential health risks associated with pesticide exposure, both for agricultural workers and consumers. The lecture would discuss the health implications of pesticide residues in food, as well as the risks to farmworkers who are often directly exposed to toxic chemicals, as well as surrounding communities.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Seminar on Human Values in Food Security Initiatives would be to explore how ethical principles and human values can inform and enhance food security efforts. The seminar would aim to:

Examine the Intersection of Human Values and Food Security: Discuss how core human values such as equity, justice, dignity, and solidarity play a critical role in shaping food security initiatives. The seminar would emphasize the need to ensure that food security policies and programs are rooted in principles that respect human rights and the well-being of all people, particularly marginalized and vulnerable groups.

Promote Social Justice in Food Systems: Explore the importance of ensuring that food security efforts are inclusive and accessible to all, especially those in poverty, rural communities, women, children, and marginalized populations. The seminar would highlight how food security programs can address social inequalities and support fair access to nutritious food.

Integrate Ethical Considerations into Policy and Practice: Discuss how ethical decision-making should be incorporated into food security policies, focusing on how governments, organizations, and communities can align their efforts with human-centered values. The seminar would look at the ethical implications of food distribution, access, and sustainability, and how policies can better support vulnerable populations.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Workshop on Sustainable Soil Management Practices would be to educate and empower participants with knowledge and practical skills to implement soil management practices that promote soil health, environmental sustainability, and agricultural productivity. The workshop would aim to:

Introduce the Importance of Soil Health: Educate participants about the critical role of soil in agricultural productivity, ecosystem functioning, and climate resilience. The workshop would emphasize how healthy soils are the foundation of sustainable food production, water filtration, carbon sequestration, and biodiversity conservation.

Promote Sustainable Soil Management Techniques: Provide practical knowledge on sustainable soil management practices, such as conservation tillage, cover cropping, crop rotation, organic matter management, agroforestry, and mulching. These practices help improve soil structure, enhance water retention, prevent erosion, and reduce the reliance on synthetic fertilizers and pesticides.

Highlight the Impact of Soil Degradation: Raise awareness about the consequences of soil degradation, such as soil erosion, loss of fertility, and desertification, which threaten food security and environmental health. The workshop would discuss the causes of soil degradation, including unsustainable farming practices, deforestation, and climate change, and explore ways to prevent or reverse these effects.

- Beneficiaries The beneficiaries of such a seminar could be quite diverse, encompassing both individuals and various groups involved in the care, support, and understanding of gender transition
- Activity Coordinator Dr. Sruthi Sajeev

Purpose of the Activity:

The purpose of the activity for the Seminar on Ayurvedic Approaches to Gender Transition Care would be multi-faceted, aiming to bridge the gap between traditional Ayurvedic practices and modern gender-affirming healthcare. The seminar seeks to achieve several objectives:

To introduce healthcare professionals, including Ayurvedic practitioners, medical doctors, and therapists, to the potential of integrating Ayurvedic principles with gender-affirming healthcare. This includes understanding how Ayurveda can complement medical treatments such as hormone replacement therapy (HRT), surgeries, and mental health support.

To educate participants on how Ayurvedic approaches can address specific health issues faced by individuals during gender transition, such as hormonal imbalances, skin changes, emotional well-being, and stress management.

Report

Name of the Activity: Seminar on Environmental Regulations Affecting Pharmacy Operations

Organized by: School of Pharmacy, Shobhit University, Gangoh

Date of the Activity: 24 Feb, 2024

Place of the Activity: University Seminar Hall

No. of Students Participated: 16

Beneficiaries: Students, Faculty Members, Pharmacy Professionals, Environmental Health Experts

Activity Coordinator: Ms. Kanika Sharma

Purpose of the Activity:

The Seminar on Environmental Regulations Affecting Pharmacy Operations was organized to raise awareness about the importance of environmental regulations in the pharmaceutical industry. The primary goal of the seminar was to explore how various environmental policies and regulations impact the operations of pharmacies, pharmaceutical manufacturers, and healthcare providers. The session aimed to provide students, faculty members, and industry professionals with an understanding of how environmental regulations ensure sustainability, safety, and compliance in pharmacy operations while also addressing environmental concerns such as waste management, resource conservation, and pollution control.

Description:

The Seminar on Environmental Regulations Affecting Pharmacy Operations was held at the University Seminar Hall and organized by the School of Pharmacy at Shobhit University, Gangoh. The seminar explored key environmental regulations that impact pharmacy operations, such as waste management laws, water and air pollution controls, and regulations surrounding the disposal of expired or unused pharmaceutical products. They explained how the pharmaceutical industry must comply with local, national, and international regulations, such as the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) guidelines, to minimize the environmental impact of drug manufacturing, distribution, and disposal.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Seminar on The Impact of Environmental Changes on Education Systems is to explore how global environmental changes, such as climate change, natural disasters, resource depletion, and environmental degradation, are affecting education systems around the world. This seminar aims to raise awareness among educators, administrators, policymakers, and researchers about the challenges and opportunities presented by environmental changes, and how educational institutions can adapt to and address these issues. It will also focus on the role of education in fostering environmental literacy and preparing students to face the challenges of a changing world. The key objectives of the seminar can include:

Understanding the Link Between Environmental Changes and Education: The seminar will provide an overview of how environmental changes, such as climate change, extreme weather events, and environmental degradation, are impacting educational systems.

Identifying Key Challenges for Education Systems: The seminar will highlight specific challenges faced by educational institutions due to environmental changes. This includes disruptions caused by natural disasters, shifting migration patterns due to environmental crises, changes in school attendance rates, and the impact of poor environmental conditions on students' health and well-being.

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Workshop on Promoting Gender-Inclusive Pedagogies is to equip educators with the knowledge, skills, and strategies needed to create inclusive, equitable, and supportive learning environments that respect and value students of all genders. This workshop aims to raise awareness of gender biases in educational settings and provides practical tools for adopting pedagogical approaches that acknowledge, celebrate, and support gender diversity. The goal is to foster classrooms where every student, regardless of gender identity or expression, feels seen, respected, and empowered to succeed. The key objectives of the workshop can include:

Understanding Gender Inclusivity in Education: The workshop will provide a foundational understanding of what gender-inclusive education is and why it is essential. It will explore the concepts of gender identity, gender expression, and the difference between sex and gender, highlighting the importance of creating an environment where all gender identities are validated.

Identifying and Addressing Gender Bias in Teaching: Participants will learn to recognize how gender bias may manifest in traditional educational practices, such as curriculum content, classroom interactions, and assessment methods. The workshop will provide strategies for eliminating gender biases and stereotypes in these areas to ensure all students have equal opportunities for success.

- Place of the Activity : Shobhit University, Gangoh
- No. of Students Participated : 15
- Beneficiaries : Students
- Activity Coordinator: Dr. Prashant Kumar

Purpose of the Activity

The purpose of a Guest Lecture on Human Values in Digital Education is to explore how human values, ethics, and principles can be integrated into the growing realm of digital education. This lecture aims to raise awareness among educators, students, and policymakers about the importance of embedding human-centric values—such as integrity, empathy, respect, fairness, and inclusivity—into digital teaching and learning environments. It seeks to provide practical insights into how technology can be used responsibly and ethically in education, ensuring that it enhances the learning experience while promoting moral and social responsibility. The key objectives of the guest lecture can include:

Understanding the Role of Human Values in Digital Education: The lecture will highlight the significance of integrating human values into digital education platforms. It will address how values like integrity, honesty, and empathy are essential for creating positive and meaningful learning experiences in the digital age.

Navigating Ethical Challenges in Digital Learning: The lecture will examine the ethical dilemmas that arise in digital education, such as data privacy concerns, the digital divide, and issues of online harassment or bullying. It will provide strategies for educators and institutions to tackle these challenges in a way that upholds human dignity and fairness.
