1.3.1 Institution integrates crosscutting issues relevant to Gender, Environment and Sustainability, Human Values, Health Determinants, Right to Health Issues, Emerging demographic changes and Professional Ethics in the curricula

The University understands that some educational aspects may not be specifically inscribed within a single course or subject. Such cross-cutting issues need to be apprehensively brought into the mainstream providing an opportunity for interdisciplinary learning. Thus, the University amalgamates these crosscutting issues into the specially designed curricula. Such courses apprise the students about the conceptual, theoretical and analytical understanding of varied approaches from a cross-cultural perspective. The course on organizational behaviour develops cognizance of understanding human behaviour under different conditions while the one on environmental science gives a general understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of environmental issues, sustainability and the climate change. The activities related to the awareness about gender equity develop basic understanding and familiarity with gender, gender bias, gender stereotype, empowerment, gender parity, equity and equality and schemes of the government for addressing all forms of disparities and inequalities existing in the society. Life Style Management covers the assessment of the physical and psychological effects of various sports & allied activities in maintaining health and well-being. Health determinants, physical education and yoga focus on the holistic health, and developing positive attitude towards health education and yoga as individual. Personality development & self-awareness related courses are also taught to the students. The specific courses on professional ethics are also a part of the curricula. Skill development modules include presentations, group discussions, quizzes, debates, and public speaking. Intra-personal skill-set focuses on stress management, mind control, yoga and meditation and interpersonal conflict management. The professional communication and soft skills are relevant for the sustainability and professional development. IPR, research ethics are explained through a dedicated course and workshops. IPR awareness programs are organized regularly to apprise the students about trademarks, copyright, patents, industrial design rights, and in some jurisdictions trade secrets. The students are made aware of the biosafety, bioethics, indigenous knowledge and IPR which deal with prevention of large-scale loss of biological integrity focusing both on ecology and human health. Legal aspects of business cover the aspects of business ownership and management, legal ethics, court procedures, contracts, consumer law, property law, employment law, environmental law, and international law. Corporate Social Responsibility and Corporate Governance issues include environmental management, eco-efficiency and sustainability, responsible sourcing, labour standards and working conditions, employees and community relations, gender balance, social equity, human rights, good governance, stakeholders' engagement, and anti-corruption measures. Human Rights Law and Law relating to women covers the issues related to the basic freedoms and rights to which every person is entitled.
