World Hindi Day Report 2025

Date : 11.01.2025

The School of Law & Constitutional Studies at Shobhit University, Gangoh organized a grand event to honor and promote the linguistic and cultural importance of Hindi on this day. The event was attended by distinguished academics, faculty members, students, and invited guests, all gathering with enthusiasm and respect to commemorate the day.

Prof. Gunjan Agarwal, extended heartfelt greetings to all the distinguished guests, faculty, and students. She emphasized the importance of Hindi, noting its historical relevance, cultural depth, and role as a unifying language in India and across the globe. She pointed out that Hindi is not merely a mode of communication but a rich repository of literature, traditions, and values passed down through generations. Prof. Agarwal also expressed gratitude to the university administration for organizing this important event, which highlights the role of Hindi in both academia and society.

The event was further honored by a speech from Vice Chancellor, Prof. Ranjit Singh. In his address, he acknowledged the expanding global reach of Hindi and its growing recognition as an international language. He conveyed his best wishes for the occasion and stressed the responsibility of educational institutions in fostering appreciation for both language and culture. Prof. Singh reaffirmed the university's commitment to promoting Hindi literature, linguistic research, and encouraging students to take pride in their native language.

Next, Registrar, Prof. Mahipal Singh, took the stage, offering his best wishes to all attendees. He expressed his happiness at seeing the active participation of both students and faculty members. He discussed the evolution of Hindi and its contributions to literature, governance, and everyday communication. Prof. Singh emphasized the importance of such events in inspiring the younger generation to engage with Hindi not just in their academic life but also in personal and professional contexts. He urged everyone to embrace their linguistic heritage and work toward enriching and promoting Hindi on a global scale.

The event featured various activities that aligned with the theme of promoting Hindi. Students eagerly participated in poetry recitations, essay-writing competitions, and speeches that celebrated the beauty and expressiveness of the language. Several prominent scholars and professors shared their perspectives on the linguistic evolution, historical significance, and future potential of Hindi as a global language.

A highlight of the celebration was a panel discussion, where experts from linguistics, literature, and law explored the role of Hindi in legal and constitutional matters. They discussed how Hindi is essential in legal processes, governance, and policymaking in India. The panelists stressed the importance of integrating Hindi into legal education and judicial systems to ensure justice is accessible to a wider audience.

Additionally, a thought-provoking documentary was presented, showcasing the historical evolution of Hindi, its literary achievements, and its cultural impact. The documentary highlighted the contributions of notable Hindi writers, poets, and scholars who have shaped the language. This visual journey through Hindi's history captivated the audience and reinforced the importance of preserving and promoting the language.

As the event progressed, several faculty members and students shared their personal experiences with Hindi. Some spoke about how the language had influenced their lives, while others reflected on its role in fostering national unity and identity. The overall atmosphere was filled with appreciation for the language, creating a collective resolve to honor and uphold its legacy.

At the event's conclusion, certificates of appreciation were awarded to participants who excelled in various competitions. The winners of the essay writing and poetry competitions were recognized for their outstanding contributions, encouraging students to continue expressing themselves through Hindi.

The celebration of World Hindi Day at the School of Law & Constitutional Studies, Shobhit University, Gangoh, was a tremendous success. The day was filled with intellectual discussions, creative expressions, and heartfelt tributes to the Hindi language. The event not only reinforced the importance of Hindi but also inspired attendees to actively participate in its preservation and promotion. As the event came to a close, a shared sense of linguistic pride and cultural appreciation lingered in the minds and hearts of all present.

In conclusion, the celebration was a reminder of the enduring relevance and vitality of Hindi as a language that connects generations, communities, and cultures. It emphasized that languages are not just tools for communication but also carriers of history, identity, and expression. The event reinforced the idea that by nurturing and celebrating our linguistic heritage, we contribute to a richer, more inclusive, and culturally vibrant society.

Report on Birth Anniversary of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose 2025

Date : 24.01.2025

On January 23, 2025, Shobhit University in Gangoh celebrated the birth anniversary of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose with great enthusiasm and respect. The event aimed to honor Netaji's significant contributions to India's freedom struggle and was attended by faculty, students, and esteemed guests.

The proceedings began with a ceremonial lamp-lighting, symbolizing the enduring light of knowledge, courage, and sacrifice that Netaji epitomized. The campus was decorated with banners, portraits, and quotes of Netaji, fostering a patriotic atmosphere.

Vice Chancellor Prof. Ranjit Singh delivered an inspiring speech, highlighting Netaji's unwavering determination, bravery, and strategic brilliance in the pursuit of India's independence. He emphasized the lasting impact of Netaji's slogan, "Give me blood, and I will give you freedom," and encouraged students to embody these ideals in their academic and professional endeavors.

Registrar Prof. Mahipal Singh reflected on Netaji's early life, education, and his courageous challenge against British rule. He underscored Netaji's diplomatic efforts to secure international support for India's independence and urged students to delve into India's history to contribute to the nation's progress.

Caretaker Sufi Zahir Akhtar shared insights into Netaji's inclusive ideology, emphasizing unity, social justice, and equality. He narrated anecdotes illustrating Netaji's discipline and dedication, inspiring students to uphold these virtues.

The event featured a documentary screening that showcased pivotal moments of Netaji's life, followed by a panel discussion on his influence on India's freedom movement and contemporary politics. An essay writing competition invited students to express their thoughts on "Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose: The Leader Who Inspired a Nation," with awards for the best essays. A poetry recitation session allowed participants to present patriotic poems inspired by Netaji's legacy.

The celebration concluded with a vote of thanks, expressing gratitude to all attendees and participants. The university reaffirmed its commitment to organizing such events to educate and inspire future generations about leaders like Netaji. The gathering left attendees with a renewed sense of patriotism and dedication to contributing positively to the nation's future.

Report on National Voters' Day 2025

Date : 27.01.2025

January 25, 2025, Shobhit University in Gangoh commemorated National Voters' Day with great enthusiasm. The School of Law & Constitutional Studies organized the event to raise awareness about the significance of voting and to encourage active participation in the democratic process. The celebration aimed to underscore the role of voters in shaping the nation's future and to instill a sense of responsibility among young citizens.

The event began with a warm welcome from Dr. Usman Ullah Khan, Coordinator of the School of Law & Constitutional Studies. He emphasized the importance of voting in a democracy and how each vote contributes to the country's governance and development. Dr. Khan discussed the historical background of National Voters' Day and the need to spread awareness about electoral participation, especially among first-time voters. He also expressed gratitude to the university administration and dignitaries for supporting the initiative and encouraging students to become active participants in the democratic process.

Following Dr. Khan's address, Vice Chancellor Prof. Ranjit Singh spoke on the relevance of the program. He highlighted the significance of informed voting and the role of education in fostering responsible citizens. Prof. Singh discussed the fundamental rights and duties of voters and how a well-informed electorate can lead to a strong and transparent government. He encouraged students to take the pledge to exercise their voting rights in every election and emphasized the importance of National Voters' Day in strengthening the nation's democratic fabric.

Registrar Prof. Mahipal Singh addressed the audience, discussing the responsibility that comes with the right to vote. He explained how democracy thrives when citizens actively engage in the electoral process and make informed choices. Prof. Singh emphasized the importance of ethical voting and urged students to take their role as future voters seriously. He also highlighted various electoral reforms and initiatives taken by the Election Commission of India to enhance voter participation and ensure free and fair elections.

The event featured a series of engaging activities, including discussions, debates, and an interactive session where students expressed their views on the importance of voting. A special presentation showcased the evolution of India's electoral process and the measures taken to increase voter participation over the years. Students actively participated, sharing thoughts on the significance of youth involvement in elections and the impact of their votes on governance and policymaking.

As part of the celebration, a voter awareness pledge was administered, where students and faculty members vowed to uphold democratic values and actively participate in the electoral process. The pledge reinforced the university community's commitment to fostering electoral awareness and responsible citizenship.

Report on National Science Day Celebration 2025

Date : 01.03.2025

Introduction

National Science Day, celebrated annually on February 28th, honors the discovery of the Raman Effect by the esteemed Indian physicist Sir C.V. Raman. The day serves to promote scientific awareness, research, and innovation. On February 28, 2025, the School of Engineering and Technology at Shobhit University, Gangoh, hosted a vibrant celebration of National Science Day. The event was attended by prominent dignitaries, faculty, and students who participated in various scientific activities. This occasion offered a valuable opportunity for students to demonstrate their scientific skills and engage in insightful knowledge-sharing sessions.

Welcome Address and Opening Remarks

The celebration began with a warm welcome from Prof. Jasvir Singh Rana, who greeted the chief guest, Vice Chancellor Prof. Ranjit Singh, as well as other dignitaries, faculty members, and students. In his opening address, Prof. Rana emphasized the significance of National Science Day and the vital role of scientific innovations in societal growth and development. He encouraged students to develop a scientific mindset and take inspiration from the accomplishments of great scientists like Sir C.V. Raman.

Vice Chancellor's Address

Following Prof. Rana's remarks, Vice Chancellor Prof. Ranjit Singh addressed the gathering. He spoke about Sir C.V. Raman's legacy and the groundbreaking discovery of the Raman Effect, which earned him the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1930. Prof. Singh highlighted the importance of science and technology in shaping modern society and urged students to embrace research and innovation. He also stressed the need for students to develop critical thinking and problem-solving abilities to make meaningful contributions to the scientific community.

Speeches by Other Dignitaries

Registrar Prof. Mahipal Singh and Caretaker Sufi Zahir Akhtar also delivered inspiring speeches. Prof. Singh discussed the impact of scientific advancements across various fields and how technological progress has enhanced human life. He motivated students to engage in research and contribute to the nation's scientific progress. Sufi Zahir Akhtar spoke about the importance of curiosity and lifelong learning in scientific exploration, encouraging students to explore innovative ideas and solutions while cultivating a passion for science.

Student Participation and Scientific Demonstrations

One of the major highlights of the event was the enthusiastic involvement of students in various scientific activities. Students showcased their innovative scientific models, research projects, and presentations on a broad range of topics. Exhibits included working models on renewable energy, robotics, artificial intelligence, and environmental conservation, among others. Many students presented their research findings using posters and PowerPoint presentations, explaining scientific concepts and their real-world applications. These interactive demonstrations fostered knowledge exchange and sparked creative discussions among students and faculty.

Science Quiz and Competitions

To add an engaging element to the event, several competitions were organized. A science quiz tested participants' knowledge on scientific principles, discoveries, and inventions, generating excitement and enthusiasm among students. Other competitions included model-making, poster presentations, and essay writing, which encouraged students to think creatively and express their ideas innovatively. Winners were awarded certificates and prizes in recognition of their achievements.

Panel Discussion on Scientific Innovations

A panel discussion was held, featuring faculty members and research scholars who shared their perspectives on contemporary scientific advancements. Topics included the impact of artificial intelligence, the future of space exploration, and sustainable development through science and technology. The panelists also answered students' questions, offering valuable insights on pursuing careers in science and research.

Interactive Session with Faculty Members

An interactive session was conducted, giving students the opportunity to engage with faculty members and experts in science and technology. The session provided a platform for students to inquire about research opportunities, higher education, and career paths in scientific fields. Faculty members shared their experiences and motivated students to adopt a research-driven approach to their studies.

Cultural Segment and Conclusion

To add a cultural touch to the celebration, students performed science-themed skits and presentations that emphasized the role of science in everyday life. The creative performances illustrated how scientific discoveries have transformed society and enhanced living standards.

The event concluded with a formal vote of thanks from a faculty member, expressing gratitude to the chief guest, dignitaries, faculty members, and students for their active participation and contributions to the event's success. The celebration ended on an inspiring note, motivating students to further explore the realms of science and technology.

Conclusion

The National Science Day celebration at Shobhit University, Gangoh, was a resounding success. It provided a platform for students to showcase their scientific talents, engage with experts, and gain

Report on International Women's Day Celebration 2025

Date : 10.03.2025

Introduction

International Women's Day, observed annually on March 8th, is a global event that recognizes the social, economic, cultural, and political accomplishments of women. It serves as both a celebration of progress towards gender equality and a reminder of the work still needed to ensure equal opportunities for women. On March 8, 2025, the School of Law & Constitutional Studies at Shobhit University, Gangoh, organized a special event to mark this important day. The celebration brought together faculty, students, and staff to honor women's achievements and discuss the significance of gender inclusivity in society.

Vice Chancellor's Address

The event began with an address by Vice Chancellor Prof. Ranjit Singh, who extended heartfelt greetings to all female staff and students on this significant occasion. He recognized the essential contributions women make across various sectors, including education, law, governance, and social reform. Prof. Singh highlighted the importance of empowering women through education and equal opportunities, as well as the need for creating an environment that allows women to thrive and contribute to society without facing discrimination.

Panel Discussion on Women's Rights and Gender Equality

A panel discussion was held during the event, featuring distinguished faculty members and legal experts who shared their insights on women's rights, gender equality, and legal protections for women in India. The discussion focused on the role of the law in ensuring justice for women, the challenges women face in the legal field, and the progress made in achieving gender equality. The session fostered a meaningful exchange of ideas and encouraged students to actively participate in building a more inclusive society.

Student Participation and Activities

Students from the School of Law & Constitutional Studies played an active role in the event by delivering speeches, essays, and poetry focused on women's empowerment. Many students shared inspiring stories of female leaders who have made significant contributions to society. Additionally, a short film highlighting the struggles and successes of women was screened, resonating deeply with the audience and sparking important discussions.

Report on World Health Day Celebration 2025

Date : 08.04.2025

Introduction

World Health Day, observed every year on April 7th, aims to raise awareness about global health issues and promote actions that enhance health and well-being. On April 7, 2022, the School of Pharmacy at Shobhit University, Gangoh, hosted a special event in honor of this occasion. The event aimed to emphasize the importance of maintaining good health, preventive care, and the progress in medical sciences. Faculty members, students, and distinguished guests attended the celebration, making it a memorable and insightful occasion.

Welcome Address and Opening Remarks

The event began with a warm welcome from Prof. Madantlal Kaushik, Director of the School of Pharmacy. He greeted Vice Chancellor Prof. Ranjit Singh, other dignitaries, faculty members, and students. In his opening speech, Prof. Kaushik highlighted the importance of World Health Day and the critical role preventive healthcare plays in fostering a healthy society. He also encouraged students to take proactive steps in raising awareness about public health and wellness.

Vice Chancellor's Address

Vice Chancellor Prof. Ranjit Singh addressed the audience, focusing on the role of healthcare professionals and advancements in pharmacy in enhancing quality of life. He emphasized the need for adopting a healthy lifestyle, preventing diseases early, and the importance of medical research in addressing global health issues. Prof. Singh also urged students to actively engage in health-related initiatives and contribute to society's well-being through their expertise in pharmacy and healthcare.

Awareness Sessions and Student Participation

The event included informative awareness sessions led by faculty members and healthcare professionals. These sessions covered a range of health-related topics, including nutrition, mental health, hygiene, and the importance of vaccinations. Students actively participated in these sessions, contributing to discussions and sharing their views on public health concerns.

To further promote awareness, students from the School of Pharmacy created informative posters and presentations on various health topics. These posters addressed issues such as the prevention of communicable diseases, the impact of lifestyle choices on health, and the importance of following prescribed medication. The interactive nature of these activities fostered valuable knowledge exchange between students and faculty.

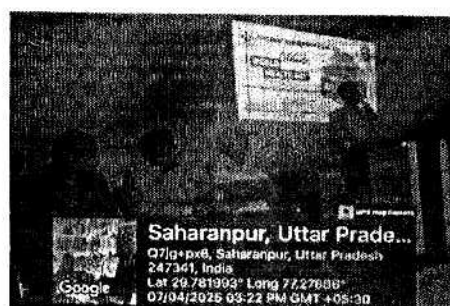

Health Check-up Camp

As part of the celebration, a free health check-up camp was organized, offering faculty members, students, and staff the opportunity to undergo screenings for blood pressure, blood sugar levels, and general health consultations. This initiative highlighted the importance of regular health check-ups and early diagnosis in preventing serious health problems.

Vote of Thanks and Conclusion

The event concluded with a vote of thanks from Prof. Bhupendra Chauhan, who expressed appreciation to the Vice Chancellor, dignitaries, faculty members, and students for their active participation. He commended the efforts of the School of Pharmacy in organizing a successful event that promoted health awareness and well-being.

The World Health Day celebration at Shobhit University, Gangoh, was a great success, providing a valuable platform to educate and inspire students to take responsibility for public health and contribute to building a healthier society.
